Brand & Identity

195 terms · name, then the phrase to paste · Workbook Library

Logo types

Wordmark a wordmark logo: the full brand name in one carefully drawn typeface, no symbol, with one small custom detail in the letterforms

Lettermark a lettermark logo built from the brand's initials, bold and tightly spaced, readable as a single shape

Monogram a monogram: two initials interlocked into one balanced figure, elegant high-contrast serif letters with a shared stroke

Pictorial mark a pictorial mark: one recognizable object simplified to a few flat shapes, readable as a silhouette

Abstract mark an abstract mark: a simple geometric shape that suggests the brand's idea without depicting anything literal, bold and memorable at small sizes

Combination mark a combination mark: a simple symbol paired with a wordmark, drawn with matching stroke weight and proportions so they read as one unit

Emblem an emblem logo: the name set inside a circular badge with a double border, a small central illustration and a founding year

Mascot a mascot logo: a friendly, simple cartoon character with a clear silhouette, big readable features and two or three flat colors

Dynamic identity a dynamic identity: one fixed frame and typeface with contents that change for each use (color, pattern or image), designed as a system of variations

Crest a crest logo: a simplified heraldic shield with one charge and a chevron, a motto ribbon underneath, in two flat colors

Signature mark a signature-style logo: the name written as a confident handwritten signature, smooth connected strokes, legible, with a single underline flourish

Letter in a shape a single custom letter set inside a solid circle, the letter knocked out in the background color, simple enough for an app icon

Symbol inside the type a wordmark with a small symbol built into one letter, replacing its counter or dot, so the picture is discovered rather than added

Horizontal lockup a horizontal lockup: symbol on the left and the name on the right, vertically centered, with a fixed gap equal to half the symbol width

Stacked lockup a stacked lockup: symbol centered above the brand name, the name about as wide as the symbol is tall

Responsive logo a responsive logo system in four sizes: full lockup with tagline, horizontal lockup, compact symbol with initials, symbol only

Clear space show the logo with its clear-space rule: a margin on all sides equal to the cap height of the wordmark, marked x

Minimum size specify a minimum size for the logo (for example 24px wide on screen, 12mm in print) and a simplified version for anything smaller

Reversed logo provide positive, reversed (knocked out of a solid dark field) and single-color versions of the logo

Tagline lockup a lockup of the logo with a short tagline set in small tracked capitals beneath the name, aligned to its left edge

App icon an app icon: the symbol centered on a rounded-square tile in the brand color, simple flat shapes, readable at 29px

Favicon a favicon: the symbol simplified for a 16×16 pixel grid, solid shapes, high contrast against light and dark tabs

Social avatar a social avatar: the symbol centered in a circle with generous padding, solid brand-color background, nothing near the edge

Co-brand lockup a co-brand lockup: two logos side by side separated by a thin vertical rule, optically balanced in size, sharing one baseline

Animated logo an animated logo sting under two seconds: the symbol builds from simple shapes in three beats, ending on the static logo

Mark styles

Geometric mark a geometric mark built only from circles, squares and quarter-circle arcs, flat fills, no freehand curves

Circle-constructed a mark constructed from overlapping guide circles, every curve an arc of one circle, with the construction grid shown

Monoline a monoline mark drawn with a single consistent stroke weight and rounded line ends, no fills

Negative space a negative space mark where the gap between solid shapes forms a second image

Overlapping shapes a mark of translucent overlapping shapes that create new tints where they intersect, with a one-color fallback

Modular grid a modular mark built from a repeating kit of squares and quarter circles on a strict grid

Isometric an isometric mark drawn on a 30-degree grid, three flat faces in three tones, no gradients

Dot matrix a dot-matrix mark with the letter formed by filled dots on a visible grid of empty dots

Ribbon & fold a ribbon mark: one continuous band that loops and weaves over itself, with clear over-under crossings

Fine line art a fine line-art mark: a small botanical drawing in thin even strokes inside a circle

Hand-drawn a hand-drawn mark with natural pen wobble, hand-lettered name inside a loose doodled circle

Brush script a brush-script mark: one energetic painted stroke with dry edges, the name brush-lettered over it

Heritage badge a heritage badge: name arched around a circular border, an est. date and a small emblem in the center, two-color

Art Deco an Art Deco mark: sunburst rays and stepped geometric forms, tall geometric capitals, gold on black

Stencil a stencil wordmark with visible bridges breaking each letter, as if spray-painted through a cut template

Woodcut & linocut a woodcut-style mark: bold carved shapes in black with parallel gouge lines as texture, rough edges

Seventies a 1970s retro mark: stacked rainbow stripes in warm oranges and golds, chunky rounded soft-serif type

Engraved an engraved mark with fine crosshatched line shading like a banknote, inside an oval frame, serif capitals

Die-cut sticker a die-cut sticker mark: bold flat shape with a thick white border and a slight drop shadow, as if peeled and stuck

Folk art a folk-art mark: symmetrical rosette of petals and tulips in flat bright red and green, like a painted hex sign

Flat flat treatment: solid fills only, no gradients, shadows or texture

Gradient a smooth gradient treatment flowing from coral red through pink to gold, with a flat one-color fallback

Chrome a Y2K chrome treatment: glossy liquid-metal letters with a hard horizon reflection and starburst highlights

Glitch a glitch treatment: red and blue channels offset from the black letters, with horizontal slices shifted sideways

Outline an outline treatment: letters and shapes drawn as even strokes with no fill, like a neon tube

Duotone a duotone treatment using only two inks, deep blue and soft pink, no other colors or tints

Dimensional a dimensional treatment: chunky letters extruded in a darker shade beneath a bright face, toy-like depth

Organic blob an organic blob treatment: soft irregular pebble shapes and rounded lowercase type, calm natural colors

Risograph a risograph treatment: two bright spot inks overprinted and slightly misregistered, with fine grain

Halftone a halftone treatment: tone built from dots that grow from small to large across the mark

Cropped & bleeding a cropped treatment: the mark scaled up so it bleeds off the frame edges, only part of it visible

Wordmarks & type

Custom lettering a custom-lettered wordmark redrawn from a serif typeface, with one distinctive drawn detail such as an extended tail

Ligature a wordmark with a custom ligature where two letters share one stroke and read as a single shape

Cut letters a wordmark of heavy capitals with one clean diagonal cut slicing through every letter

Tracked capitals a wordmark in widely letterspaced capitals, light to medium weight, with a thin rule beneath

All lowercase an all-lowercase wordmark in a bold friendly sans, tight letterspacing, no symbol

Script wordmark a connected script wordmark with a sweeping underline swash, warm and personal

Stacked wordmark a stacked wordmark: the name broken onto two tight lines in condensed capitals, forming a solid block

Cropped wordmark a cropped wordmark where the top third of every letter is cut away, still readable

Swapped letter a wordmark where one letter is replaced by a simple symbol that still reads as that letter

Wordmark in a box a wordmark knocked out in white from a solid black rectangle, tight even padding

Swoosh & underline a wordmark with a single curved underline swash that suggests motion and ends in a small arrowhead

Geometric sans set in a geometric sans-serif like Futura or Avenir: circular rounds, single-story a, clean and modern

Humanist sans set in a humanist sans-serif like Frutiger or Gill Sans: open shapes, gentle stroke contrast, warm and readable

Grotesk set in a neo-grotesque sans like Helvetica or Akzidenz-Grotesk: neutral, tight, bold weights

Didone set in a high-contrast Didone serif like Didot or Bodoni: hairline strokes, vertical stress, elegant capitals

Slab serif set in a slab serif like Rockwell or Clarendon: heavy square serifs, sturdy and honest

Rounded sans set in a rounded sans-serif like VAG Rounded or Nunito: soft round terminals, friendly and safe

Script set in a connected script face like Yellowtail or Lobster, for the name only, never for body text

Blackletter set in a blackletter face like Fette Fraktur: dense, angular broad-pen letters

Monospace set in a monospace face like IBM Plex Mono: fixed-width characters, technical and plain

Extended set in an extended wide sans like Druk Wide or Monument Extended: very wide, bold and futuristic

Condensed set in a condensed poster sans like Bebas Neue or Knockout: tall narrow capitals, punchy

Soft serif set in a soft chunky serif like Cooper Black or Recoleta: rounded serifs, warm and nostalgic

Archetypes & positioning

Innocent an Innocent brand archetype: optimistic, honest and simple, with soft rounded shapes, lots of white space and pale fresh colors

Everyman an Everyman brand archetype: friendly, unpretentious and fair, with sturdy plain type, familiar primary colors and no luxury cues

Hero a Hero brand archetype: brave, driven and motivating, with bold upward angles, heavy type and high-contrast red and black

Outlaw an Outlaw brand archetype: rebellious, raw and anti-establishment, with black and red, rough texture and blackletter or stencil type

Explorer an Explorer brand archetype: independent, curious and outdoorsy, with horizon or compass motifs, earthy greens and ochres and a rugged slab serif

Creator a Creator brand archetype: imaginative and expressive, with overlapping primary shapes, considered bright color and an editorial serif

Ruler a Ruler brand archetype: commanding, stable and premium, with a symmetrical crest or crown, gold on black and a high-contrast serif in capitals

Magician a Magician brand archetype: visionary and transformative, with a star or orbit motif, deep blue and violet with a pink glow, and an elegant display serif

Lover a Lover brand archetype: sensual, warm and intimate, with flowing script, deep red and blush, and soft close-cropped imagery

Caregiver a Caregiver brand archetype: warm, protective and reassuring, with a holding or sheltering shape, soft greens and blues and rounded friendly type

Jester a Jester brand archetype: playful, irreverent and fun, with wonky tilted shapes, a character with a face and loud saturated yellow, pink and red

Sage a Sage brand archetype: knowledgeable, calm and trustworthy, with a book, lamp or lens motif, deep blue and cream and a bookish serif

Sincerity a sincere brand personality: down-to-earth, honest, wholesome and cheerful, with warm color, a friendly serif and real unretouched photography

Excitement an exciting brand personality: daring, spirited, imaginative and up to date, with saturated color, energetic motion and wide expressive type

Competence a competent brand personality: reliable, intelligent and successful, with a clean grid, a restrained blue and neutral palette and a precise sans serif

Sophistication a sophisticated brand personality: refined, charming and glamorous, with a Didone serif, black and cream, generous margins and almost nothing on the page

Ruggedness a rugged brand personality: outdoorsy, tough and durable, with a slab serif, a stamped badge, canvas and leather texture and brown, green and safety orange

Quiet to loud place the brand near the loud end of a quiet-to-loud scale: big type, saturated color and full-bleed layouts, with one quiet moment for contrast

Classic to modern place the brand in the middle of a classic-to-modern scale: a modernized serif, simple symmetry and a restrained palette that feels both established and current

Serious to playful place the brand near the serious end of a serious-to-playful scale: upright type, calm color and no characters, but warm rather than cold

Challenger a challenger brand stance: positioned against the category leader on one clear point, visually the opposite of the leader in color and tone

Premium a premium brand stance: priced above the market and visibly better made, with fewer elements, deeper color and tactile materials

Value a value brand stance: wins on price and says so plainly, with simple packaging, big confident numbers and one bright color

Heritage a heritage brand stance: built on founding date, place and craft, with archive-inspired badges and period type updated for today

Disruptor a disruptor brand stance: introduces a new model to an old category and breaks the category's visual codes on purpose

Category creator a category-creator brand stance: names a new category and owns it, with a clear category name and one simple repeatable visual idea

Luxury a luxury brand stance: rare and desired rather than useful, with a tiny tracked wordmark, vast empty space, one rich material and a repeated house code

Craft & indie a craft and independent brand stance: small batch and hand made, with kraft paper, rubber-stamp marks, batch numbers and hand lettering

Mission-led a mission-led brand stance: the cause is built into the identity with a pledge mark or impact counter, honest proof and a clear cause color

Utility a utility brand stance: no story, just a clearly labeled product, with monospaced type, specs and numbers on a strict label grid

Identity systems

Signature color a single ownable signature color used in large flat areas on every touchpoint, so the brand is recognizable before the logo is read

Primary palette a primary palette of three colors with set proportions: a warm cream background about 60%, a brand red about 30% and a dark ink about 10%

Secondary palette a secondary palette of four muted supporting colors (glaze blue, sage green, rose, sky) that sit beside the core cream, red and ink without competing with them

Neutral scale a warm neutral scale from a cream off-white to a soft near-black, tinted toward the brand red, carrying backgrounds, text and borders

Accent color a calm neutral layout with one saturated accent color reserved only for calls to action and key highlights

Tint scale a tint scale of the brand blue in ten even steps from 50 to 900, used for backgrounds, states and charts

Monochrome identity a strictly monochrome identity in black and white only, where type, photography and layout do all the work

Color blocking bold color-blocked layouts: large hard-edged flat panels of red, ochre, blue and pink with type set directly on the blocks

Multicolor system a multicolor system of six equal hues where any one can lead, applied to the same fixed layout and logo so each branch gets its own color

Color coding a color-coding system where each line or zone has one fixed color, always paired with a letter or number for accessibility

Supergraphic an oversized supergraphic taken from the logo, scaled far past the frame and cropped by the edges of every poster and wall

Brand pattern a repeating brand pattern built from a simplified piece of the logo, used on packaging, totes and backgrounds

Framing device a consistent framing device of thick corner brackets that holds every photo and headline across the campaign

Holding shape a slanted holding shape taken from the logo that sits over photography and contains every headline and price

Brand illustration style a brand illustration style with flat shapes, no outlines, a limited five-color palette, simplified rounded people and a little grain

Icon style a consistent icon style on a 24px grid with a 2px stroke, round caps and joins, 2px corner radius and no fills

Photography direction a photography direction of natural light, low camera angles, warm film grade, real people mid-activity, and no posed smiles at camera

Motion principles brand motion principles: a snappy ease-out curve, durations of 150, 300 and 600ms, and elements that slide up and settle like a page being placed

Sonic logo a sonic logo of four rising notes under two seconds, warm and acoustic, that plays at the end of every video and on app launch

Data-driven identity a data-driven generative identity where a radial mark is drawn from each event's data, with fixed color and typography holding the system together

Custom typeface a custom brand typeface with a few distinctive letters (a flat-topped t and a hooked y) used for all headlines and signage

Layout grid a strict 6-column modular layout grid with generous margins and a baseline rhythm, used for every poster, report page and screen

Stationery a stationery set of business card, letterhead and envelope with the logo top left, generous margins and the brand blue as a single edge stripe

Wayfinding signage wayfinding signage on dark blue panels with large white sans-serif destinations, arrows on the left, pictograms and the brand mark small in the corner

Packaging packaging with a fixed brand block at the top and a color band per variant, with a simple pictorial illustration and large flavor name

Merchandise merchandise that uses the mark small and a graphic device large: an embroidered cap, a screen-printed tote and an enamel pin

Vehicle livery a vehicle livery with a broad brand-blue stripe sweeping along the hull, a white upper body, and the mark large near the bow

Environmental graphics environmental graphics with a floor-to-ceiling wave supergraphic in brand blue across the terminal wall, dimensional letters and wood benches

Social templates a social template kit of square posts and vertical stories with a fixed logo corner, one headline zone and a photo window, in brand blue and cream

Website a website homepage carrying the identity: a slim nav with the logo left, a full-width photo hero with a headline in the brand typeface, and brand-blue buttons

App icon & splash an app icon of the mark alone in white on a brand-blue rounded square, with a matching splash screen that shows the mark centered on solid blue

Uniforms crew uniforms in navy workwear with a small embroidered mark on the chest, a brand-red name tab and a knit cap

Email signature a plain-text-first email signature with name in bold, role and phone on one line, a small logo image that is optional, and the brand blue only on links

Design systems

Design token define every color, size and spacing value as a named design token, and never hard-code raw values in components

Primitive tokens start with a layer of primitive tokens named by value (red-500, grey-100, space-4) that components never use directly

Semantic tokens add a semantic token layer named for purpose (text.danger, surface.raised, border.subtle) that points at primitives

Component tokens expose component tokens (button.primary.background, card.padding) that alias semantic tokens, only where a component needs its own dial

Color ramp build each brand color as a ramp of 10 stops (50 to 900) evenly spaced in perceived lightness, using OKLCH

Type scale use a type scale with a 1.25 ratio and seven named steps (caption, body, body-lg, h4, h3, h2, display)

Spacing scale use an 8pt spacing scale (4, 8, 12, 16, 24, 32, 48, 64) for every padding, margin and gap

Corner radius define radius tokens none, sm 4px, md 8px, lg 16px and full (pill), and use sm for buttons and inputs

Elevation define four elevation levels (flat, raised, overlay, modal) as shadow tokens, and lighten surfaces instead of adding shadow in dark mode

Theming & modes support light, dark and high-contrast modes by swapping the values behind semantic tokens, with dark mode designed on its own

Multi-brand theming build one component library with a theme layer, so each brand swaps colors, typeface and radius without changing components

Density offer comfortable and compact density modes by swapping spacing tokens, keeping touch targets at least 44px on mobile

Atomic design organize the system with atomic design: atoms (button, input, label), molecules (search field), organisms (header, transaction list)

Component library ship the components as one shared library in Figma and in code, with matching names and props in both

Variants give each component a small set of variants (primary, secondary, ghost, danger; sm, md, lg) set by props, not separate components

Interactive states design every interactive state (default, hover, pressed, focus, disabled, loading), with a visible 2px focus ring

Component anatomy document each component with an anatomy diagram: numbered callouts for container, label, icon, helper text and their token names

Slots build container components with named slots (leading, title, trailing, actions) instead of a prop for every possible content

Patterns document recurring patterns (sign-in, empty state, confirm a payment, error recovery) as step-by-step flows with real copy

Page templates provide page templates (dashboard, list and detail, settings, form) with blocked-out regions built from the layout grid

Icon set use one icon set on a 24px grid with a 1.5px stroke, rounded joins and a 2px safe area, drawn to match the typeface weight

Layout primitives build layouts from layout primitives (Stack, Cluster, Grid) that own all spacing, so components carry no outer margins

Breakpoints define breakpoints sm 0, md 768px and lg 1200px, with a 4, 8 and 12 column grid, and document how each template reflows

Handoff specs annotate designs for handoff with redlines that name tokens (space-4, radius-sm, color.action), not raw pixel values

Brand guidelines write brand guidelines covering logo versions and clear space, color values, typography, imagery, voice and do and don't examples

Style guide produce a one-page style guide: color swatches with hex values, type styles, spacing scale, buttons and form fields

Documentation site publish a documentation site with a page per component: live example, usage do and don't, props table, tokens used and code

Do and don't examples show do and don't examples side by side for the logo and key components: stretched, recolored, on busy backgrounds, crowded

Single source of truth keep every token in one JSON source and generate CSS variables, Swift, Kotlin and Figma variables from it with Style Dictionary

Versioning & changelog version the system with semantic versioning and publish a changelog with migration notes for every breaking change

Contribution model define a contribution model: propose, review, build, document, release, with a core team that reviews and product teams that contribute

Contrast & accessibility publish approved text and background color pairs with their contrast ratios, all at least WCAG AA (4.5:1 for body text)

Brand audit run a brand audit: collect every logo, color, type style and button in use today, group the duplicates and propose one of each

Brand asset portal set up a brand asset portal with approved logo files (SVG, PNG, EPS), templates, photos and fonts, each labelled with where to use it

Naming conventions name tokens as category-property-variant-state (color-text-danger-hover) and components by purpose, never by appearance

Adoption metrics track adoption: share of UI built from library components, count of hard-coded values, and which teams are on the latest version

Architecture & naming

Branded house a branded-house architecture: one master brand used on every product, with sub-products named by plain descriptors in the same typeface

House of brands a house-of-brands architecture: each product line has its own unrelated name and visual identity, and the parent company is mentioned only in small print

Endorsed brand an endorsed-brand lockup: the product brand dominant, with a small "by [parent]" endorsement line beneath in the parent's typeface

Sub-brand a sub-brand: the master brand name paired with a distinct product name and its own accent color, sharing the parent's typeface and lockup rules

Hybrid architecture a hybrid brand architecture: core products under the master brand, one endorsed brand and one fully independent acquired brand, with written rules for each

Ingredient brand an ingredient-brand badge: a compact mark for a component technology, designed to sit on other companies' products, with a short "inside" descriptor

Family identity a product-family identity: every product uses the same band, grid and type, with one color per product so the range reads as a set

Descriptive name a descriptive brand name that plainly says what the business does, short and easy to say aloud

Invented name an invented brand name: a new two- or three-syllable word with no existing meaning, easy to pronounce, with a crisp sound

Acronym an acronym name built from the initials of the full name, ideally pronounceable as a word

Founder name a founder-name brand: the founder's surname, optionally with "& Daughters" or "& Co.", set like an old shop sign

Evocative name an evocative brand name: one real word that suggests the brand's promise as a metaphor, not a description

Compound name a compound brand name made of two short, concrete words joined into one, with a clear image

Portmanteau a portmanteau name blending two words at a shared sound, easy to spell after hearing it once

Respelled name a respelled brand name: a real word with one or two letters changed so it is distinctive, still pronounced the same

Place name a place-name brand: named after a real-sounding lake, hill or street tied to the brand's origin

Wordplay name a wordplay brand name using a pun, alliteration or rhyme that fits the brand's tone